I found that provided my localDb server version was greater/larger than the version of the localDb mdf I was trying to open, VS 2015 would do an upgrade.. I've just upgraded my laptop to Windows 10, most things are working as expected except for one of my applications; it reports the version of Windows it's running under as Windows 8.. Since the values are being retrieved and I suppose if you use Regedit the values are the same as what is being retrieved then until you can find the values you want using Regedit or something I wouldn't consider this a VB.. '2 Check the Windows build version in registry(HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE SOFTWARE Microsoft Windows NT CurrentVersion BuildLabEx)' La vida loca.. My concern is the application has to run from XP to 10 - and detect the Windows version; using the registry key HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE SOFTWARE Microsoft Windows NT CurrentVersion for all versions before 10 did return a different string for each version, but not for 10.. Just dbl-click the mdf file after sticking in a project So, how do I distinguish between 8.. Thanks for the reply; the OS is reported as Windows 10 in control panel My concern is the application has to run from XP to 10 - and detect the Windows version; using the registry key HKEY_LOCAL_MACHINE SOFTWARE Microsoft Windows NT CurrentVersion for all versions before 10 did return a different string for each version, but not for 10.
